Early Life and Family

Anne Frank was born on June 12, 1929, in Frankfurt, Germany, to Otto and Edith Frank. Her father was a successful businessman, and her mother was a loving and supportive homemaker. Anne had an older sister named Margot. The Frank family lived a comfortable and joyous life, surrounded by close friends and relatives. However, their world was soon to be shattered by the rising tide of Nazi tyranny.

Nazi Occupation and Persecution

In 1933, the Nazi Party came to power in Germany, unleashing a reign of terror against the Jewish population. The Frank family, like countless other Jewish families, faced increasing discrimination and persecution. In 1940, the Nazis invaded the Netherlands, where the Franks had sought refuge. The occupation brought with it a new wave of fear and uncertainty.

Hiding in the Secret Annex

In July 1942, the Frank family and four other individuals went into hiding in a secret annex behind Otto Frank's business premises in Amsterdam. The annex was a small and cramped space, accessible only through a concealed door. The eight occupants lived in constant fear of discovery, relying on the help of trusted friends outside to provide them with food and supplies.

Anne's Diary

During her time in hiding, Anne Frank kept a diary, which she named "Kitty." Kitty became Anne's confidante, the repository of her innermost thoughts, hopes, and fears. Anne wrote about her daily life in the annex, her relationships with her family and friends, and her dreams for the future. Her diary provides a poignant and intimate glimpse into the life of a young girl living in the shadow of tyranny.

Discovery and Deportation

On August 4, 1944, the hiding place of the Frank family was discovered by the Gestapo. All eight occupants were arrested and transported to concentration camps. Anne and her sister Margot were sent to Bergen-Belsen, where they died of typhus in February or March 1945, just weeks before the camp was liberated.

Legacy

Anne Frank's diary was discovered after the war and posthumously published in 1947. The diary has been translated into over 70 languages and has sold more than 30 million copies worldwide. It has become one of the most widely read books of our time, inspiring countless people around the globe.
