Early Life and Family

Guido Guerrieri was born into a Jewish family in the small town of Fano, Italy, in 1922. His early childhood was filled with love and happiness, but everything changed with the rise of fascism in Italy. In 1943, the Nazis occupied Italy and began rounding up Jews. Guerrieri and his family were deported to Auschwitz-Birkenau, the largest and most infamous Nazi concentration camp. There, he witnessed unimaginable horrors and lost many of his family members and friends. Guerrieri was eventually transferred to Bergen-Belsen, where he was liberated by Allied forces in 1945.

Post-War Life and Legacy

After the war, Guerrieri returned to Italy and dedicated his life to fighting against hatred and intolerance. He became a tireless advocate for Holocaust remembrance and education. Guerrieri spoke out against racism and anti-Semitism and worked to promote peace and understanding. He also established the Guido Guerrieri Foundation, which supports Holocaust education and research.
