The Birth of a Christmas Classic:

In 1897, New York City was bustling with holiday cheer when a young girl named Virginia O'Hanlon penned a letter to the esteemed New York Sun newspaper. Filled with childlike wonder, Virginia questioned the existence of Santa Claus, seeking reassurance amidst the skeptical whispers of the time.

Francis Pharcellus Church, the Sun's editor, responded with a resounding affirmation, weaving words that would become immortalized in American folklore: "Yes, Virginia, there is a Santa Claus. He exists as certainly as love and generosity and devotion exist, and you know that they abound and give to your life its highest beauty and joy."
